TRIP PROFILE

We ride a total of 425 km over 6 cycling days. The tour is divided into four main cycling stages: i) day 2's ride in the Andean foothills towards Calima Lake ii) days 3 and 4 which take place primarily in the plains of the Cauca Valley iii) day 5's transition from the valley into the Coffee Region and iv) day 6 and 8's routes in the highlands of the Cordillera Central. Day 7 is a hiking day in the Cocora Valley, so while our bikes get a day off, our legs certainly don't! We have a transfer on days 2 and 3 to the cycling start points and on day 8 from the cycling end point to the hotel. All of the other rides are point-to-point. This region of Colombia has some of the country's finest roads for road cycling, enabling a mix of fast-paced gliding on the flats, uphill grinds, and thrilling descents.

Besides enjoyable cycling routes, you can also look forward to immersing yourself in the rich traditions of the Cauca Valley and the Coffee Cultural Landscape. It goes without saying that coffee lovers are in for a real treat on this tour!

The trip is fully supported, and your guide's expert knowledge of the area and terrain means that you always know what is coming up in terms of distance and difficulty. This makes a tremendous difference, as does the constant supply of water and refreshments along the way.

Suitability: This tour is best suited for experienced road cyclists capable of handling back-to-back riding days with an average distance of 70 km and average elevation gains of over 1,000 metres. The first half of the trip is, compared to the second, more mild, providing a good opportunity to get properly warmed up before tackling the serious climbs in the Coffee Region. For the most part, the ascents aren't overly aggressive with low gradients but there are some steep exceptions. Downhills are prominent as well, with some winding and steep sections requiring caution and braking control. Less experienced riders are welcome but should prepare themselves in advance to manage the longer distances and climbs at a reasonable pace. The support vehicle is always nearby to offer refuge to any weary cyclists.

Biking Conditions: This trip is on paved roads which are mostly in good condition, though broken asphalt, road debris, and potholes do present themselves. The route is on a mix of quiet, countryside roads and provincial main roads. Colombia is an economically fast-moving country and riding on paved surfaces means regularly sharing the road with trucks, buses, cars, and motorbikes. We have chosen the least busy roads possible but please be aware that traffic can be unpredictable and, especially near the cities and towns, unavoidable. On this journey, we transition from the warm Cauca Valley to the cooler mountains of the Coffee Region so be prepared for temperature swings, on some days happening in the span of a few hours! Rain is common in Colombia throughout the year. The mountains, in particular, can get foggy and rainy but heavy downpours are usually brief. We generally ride rain or shine, but depending on the guide's discretion or your comfort level, modifications to the planned route can be made. It's all part of the adventure!

Hotels: The accommodations on this tour are a highlight in and of themselves. In Cali, we stay at a well-regarded colonial-style 5-star hotel in a trendy neighborhood. At Calima Lake, we stay at a 4-star hotel with a sustainability focus. In Trujillo we stay at a more basic, but still very cozy, 3-star hotel in the main plaza. In La Unión we stay in one of the most beautiful destination hotels of the region, surrounded by vineyards. Our night spent in Filandia is the highlight for many: a cycling hotel, designed and built by cyclists for cyclists. Yes, there is a spa. Our hotel in Salento, where we spend two nights, is part of a working dairy farm, combining traditional architecture with modern comforts. And, for the last night of the tour in Calarcá we stay at a coffee estate turned boutique hotel. Throughout, you can expect clean rooms, hot showers, professional service and, depending on the particularities of each property, extras such as inviting pools, gorgeous views, and delectable cuisine. English is widely spoken in the Colombian service industry but cannot always be expected in more remote regions.

Day 1: Meet in Cali

Welcome to Cali, Colombia's third-largest city! Located in the southwest of the country, Cali is nestled in the Cauca Valley and surrounded by the Colombian Andes. We suggest arriving a day or two before the tour begins to get settled into the Colombian pace of life and explore Cali which, known as the salsa capital of the world, comes alive at night with bars thumping to hip-swinging rhythms. You can also check out Cali's most iconic landmark – the Cristo Rey – a large statue of Christ overlooking the city from a hill and dive into the flavors of the distinctive Valluno cuisine. On arrival day, we'll meet at our tour hotel in the late afternoon for a trip briefing and welcome dinner. Our boutique, colonial-style tour hotel is located in the buzzing Granada neighborhood, filled with chic boutiques, restaurants, cafés & bars. Please let us know if you require assistance with airport transfers or pre-tour hotel bookings.

Day 2: Cali - La Cumbre - Calima Lake

Our adventure begins with a 1.5-hour transfer from Cali to La Cumbre, a small town nestled in the foothills of the Western Colombian Andes. After saddling up in La Cumbre, our route takes us along a quiet secondary road that winds through cloud forests, highland farms, livestock pastures, and dense patches of native vegetation. The road undulates with gentle climbs and exhilarating descents, allowing us to find our rhythm while soaking in our first taste of the rural Andean landscape. By around 28 km we reach the town of Restrepo, from where we tackle a 7 km / 5-6% climb elevating us to over 1,600 metres ASL. The subsequent downhill brings us to the southwestern tip of Calima Lake, a vast reservoir with sparkling waters surrounded by lush hillslopes. We skirt around the lake on a peaceful road for around 30 km. Our ride ends with a short, punchy climb (2 km / 5%) to an elegant hilltop hotel with magnificent views and farm-to-table dining.

Day 3: Calima Lake - Mediacanoa - Trujillo

The day starts with a 30-minute transfer to avoid riding downhill on a steep and busy national road. We get on our bikes near a junction back in the valley and dart off along a flat secondary road which follows the Cauca River north. The plains are covered in expansive sugarcane plantations with a sea of densely packed emerald green stalks swaying in the breeze. The smooth road surface and flat terrain allow for a fast-paced ride for the majority of today's short stage, but once we reach the 40 km point, a fairly steep hilltop finish awaits! Rising back into the lower slopes of the Andes, we cycle along a narrow road snaking its way through waves of fresh foliage, including coffee plants, for around 7 km with gradients that can creep into the double digits. As we climb higher, the contrast becomes stark: the flat, sugarcane-draped Cauca valley stretches below, while the towering, mist-shrouded ridgelines of the Western Cordillera loom above. Once the road begins to level again, we roll into the small town of Trujillo where we end our ride and unwind with a cup of coffee in the quiet, central plaza.

Day 4: Trujillo - La Unión

We head back into the Cauca Valley, tracing our way down the same road we battled our way up the day before! By the 10 km point we're back in the lowlands and, for the remainder of the day's distance, follow the meandering course of the Cauca River north through the heart of Colombia's agricultural basin. We continue to see vast sugarcane plantations, but also pass by mango orchards, wide canopied rain trees, and roadside market villages. Other than a few mild, 1-2 km climbs, today's route is primarily flat, enabling us to make good time to reach our final destination, the municipality of La Unión, for lunch. This area is one of the key centre of Colombia's emerging wine industry with boutique vineyards radiating across the landscape. The afternoon is free to relax at our countryside retreat perched on a small hill with admirable views, or to head out for a vineyard tour & wine tasting nearby (at additional cost).

Day 5: La Unión - Filandia

Today we take things up a couple of notches, transitioning from the plains of the Cauca Valley into the coffee-studded highlands of the Central Andes. We make quick work of the first 45 km as we weave across the valley floor to reach the city of Cartago where, after a bit of urban riding, we begin our ascent into "Eje Cafetero", the UNESCO World Heritage inscribed Coffee Cultural Landscape of Colombia. The transformation of the terrain is gradual and accompanied by two initial climbs of 3-5 km (4-7%) separated by a swift downhill. By around 60 km we begin to find ourselves deep within the hilly homeland of the smooth Arabica beans that have shaped Colombia's economy, culture, and global identity for over 150 years. The ride's final 20 km are a steady climb into the municipality of Filandia, with mild gradients (3-4%), accompanied by a photoreel of hillsides covered in rows of coffee plants and the villages of the proud farmers tending to them. Tonight's accommodation is a real treat: a modern hotel in the heart of the coffee region built by cyclists for cyclists!

Day 6: Filandia - Salento

We backtrack around 12 km downhill through the green hills of Filandia often cloaked in morning mist. After passing through the town of Quimbaya, the terrain evens out as we follow a provincial road through farmlands growing tropical fruits like the Colombian staple, guava. After around 20 km we veer onto a narrower country road rising back into the coffee-growing highlands. Passing by pastures and fincas (agricultural estates) we climb steadily at low gradients for around 15 km to reach Circasia, a lively little town where we stop to power up with a fresh cup of coffee in the central square. The ascent then continues along the shoulder of a provincial thoroughway until, at around 48 km, we branch off onto a minor road for a refreshing downhill with stunning views of the Cordillera Central. After crossing the Quindio River, a winding 4 km / 6% lifts us to the colorful Andean town of Salento located at nearly 2,000 metres ASL. Salento is renowned for vibrantly painted buildings and being the gateway to the dreamy Cocora Valley. We stay at a cosy ecolodge just outside of town where we are based for two nights.

Day 7: Cocora Valley Hiking & Coffee Making

Today we trade our cycling cleats for hiking shoes to explore one of Colombia's most iconic natural treasures: the Cocora Valley. Here, towering wax palms – the tallest palm species in the world – rise above montane meadows enveloped by lush cloud forests. Our roughly 10 km (+650 m / -650 m) hike takes us high up into this remarkable Andean landscape where, besides traversing lush trails and hanging bridges, we visit a secluded mountain retreat famous for its hummingbirds, and a farm perched at one of the highest accessible points in the valley. After returning to the trailhead, it's time for lunch. In the afternoon we head to a local coffee farm to learn about the entire production process from bean to cup. This hands-on experience reveals why this region is recognized as a UNESCO Coffee Cultural Landscape, and how generations of families have made their livelihood cultivating Colombia's most famous export.

Day 8: Salento - Calarcá

From the heights of Salento we work our way back down the mountains, with the first 30 km feeling familiar as we return via the same roads we ascended on day 7. Once we've passed through the town of Montenegro we continue further south flanked by fields of sugarcane, coffee, and all kinds of tropical fruits. At around 47 km we take a detour through a beautiful tunnel of trees, where a dense canopy of intertwining foliage arches over a narrow side road. Then, a short section on some bumpy rural lanes gets us back onto asphalt for a fast-paced 20 km zip to the town of Caicedonia. Here we prepare for the tour's grand finale: the 7 km climb up to Buenavista, a village that lives up to its name - "good view"! The ascent includes some steep gradients, though the panoramas of the Cauca Valley and the coffee region are spectacular. At the top we load up our bikes and transfer around 30 minutes to our final night's hotel nestled amongst coffee plantations in the municipality of Calarcá. In the evening we gather for a celebratory farewell dinner - we can let the cervezas flow tonight!

Day 9: Calarcá Departure

The tour ends with a transfer to either the city of Armenia, around 30 minutes away, or Pereira, around 1.5 hours away. Both cities have airports, though Pereira — which is the main transit hub of the Coffee Region — offers a greater number of flights. Shared transfers will be arranged based on the flight schedules within the group. Feel free to extend your stay and explore more of what Colombia has to offer!

Breakfast

Disclaimer: The adventure cycling tours we operate often go beyond the beaten track, and the countries where we ride are not always predictable. Due to these reasons, it is occasionally necessary to reroute or update itineraries. Our guarantee is that we will not change a trip unless for safety or to improve it. Our listed hotels are always accurate at the time of writing, but should we have to change any hotel, it will always be for a similar or better one.

NUTS & BOLTS

Bikes

Because some people can't imagine going on a trip without their own beloved bicycle, we do not provide them as part of this tour. However, you can hire bikes locally for the price listed in the tour pricing section. We provide high quality Go Rigo Go, Specialized, Trek, or similar road bikes. The bike assigned will depend on the availability and size. If you bring your own bike, please make sure it is a road bike in good mechanical order.

Bike Repairs

Basic spares and tools are carried by the guide and on the support vehicle, though we cannot guarantee having spares for every conceivable problem. Carrying a basic tool kit, a spare tube and a pump while riding is recommended.

Safety

Wearing a helmet is required on all our biking adventures and is non negotiable. If you do not wear a helmet you will not be allowed to cycle. Your tour leader is trained in first aid and emergency rescue, but to a large degree you must be responsible for your own safety while riding. It is therefore compulsory that you take out travel insurance that will cover you for a mountain biking tour.

Guides

You will be led by a local English-speaking guide and if the group is 9 people or more we will add another guide to the tour. All our guides are well informed in the history, culture and religions of the area where you are biking and are skilled at passing that knowledge on to you. Your guide is also medically trained and an experienced cyclist, able to handle most minor repairs en route.

THE NITTY GRITTY

Passports and Visas

Travellers from Australia, the United Kingdom, US, Canada and the EU do not need a visa to enter Colombia for a visit of fewer than 90 days. You must be able to show an onward or return ticket valid within the 90-day period. Citizens of certain countries need to present a tourist visa to gain entry. These can be processed at the Colombian embassies and consulates abroad. You can check if you need a visa or not in the link here. If you require a visa, please contact the embassy/consulate nearest to you and do not leave it to the last minute.

All travelers must fill out a pre-registration form (called Checkmig) before departure to Colombia. Travelers must complete the form within 72 hours before departure. Travelers must show confirmation of registration before boarding. Please fill out the Checkmig form here. Please keep a copy of the Checkmig form on your phone, as this may be checked by Colombian immigration.

Update: The Colombian government is currently making technological improvements to the Check-Mig application and the website is down. Therefore, it is not necessary to fill it out at this time. We suggest checking the site again before heading to the airport and, if it is back online, fill it out just in case.

Health

Recommended vaccinations include typhoid, polio, tetanus and Hepatitis A. A certificate for Yellow Fever is required if arriving from an infected area. See here for more recommendations to help you prepare. Please speak to your doctor/physician for the most recent information.

Weather

One of the most surprising things about Colombia for foreign visitors is the relatively constant climate throughout the year. Located on the Equator, the country experiences consistent daylight hours, with the sun rising and setting at the same time every day. Unlike most other countries, Colombia doesn't have traditional seasons but instead has dry periods (from December to March and July to September) and rainy periods (from April to June and October to November). However, rain can occur at any time, so it's essential to bring a waterproof jacket and pants. In Bogotá and other high-altitude areas, temperatures can be chilly, especially in the mornings and evenings. A fleece and cold-weather cycling gear, such as arm warmers and a gilet, are recommended for these cooler days. Due to the strong UV rays near the Equator, sun cream and a head covering are also necessary for protection.

Food

Meals are included as per the itinerary where B = breakfast, L = lunch, D = dinner. Most meals are local and feature traditional Colombian highland dishes. Any special dietary requirements can also be catered for. Please let us know at the time of booking. In remote areas, options may be limited, but we always do our best to accommodate your needs.

Drink

Keeping you completely hydrated is a job we take very seriously. Water, refreshments and soft drinks are included in the tour price while riding. Soft drinks, alcoholic beverages, and other beverages during meals are NOT included. Beer and other alcohol drinks are almost always available but are not included.

Solo Travelers

SpiceRoads does not require you to pay a surcharge for travelling alone. We will arrange for you to share accommodation with another traveller of the same gender and if we can not match you up we will provide a single room at no extra charge. If you prefer not to share a single supplement is payable to guarantee your own room. The cost of the single supplement is listed above.

Extra Expenses

We recommend that you tuck away a few extra US Dollars for possible incidentals that might arise. It is always wise to have some paper currency in case of ATM absence or credit card problems. This will save you a lot of unnecessary worries. It is also customary to tip local tour guides and drivers; however, the amount you give should be dependent on the level of service you receive.

Money

The Colombian peso (COP) is the legal currency of Colombia, denoted locally by the symbol $. Coins in circulation include denominations of 50, 100, 200, 500, and 1,000 pesos, while banknotes come in values of 1,000, 2,000, 5,000, 10,000, 20,000, 50,000, and 100,000 pesos. What works best for most people is exchanging some money as soon as you arrive at the airport and then you can top up as needed with ATM withdrawals in some of the bigger towns. Don't expect to find money exchange places outside of Bogotá on this tour. If you are exchanging USD (or any other currency), make sure that your bills are in good condition (no tears, crumpling, or scribbling) as they may not be accepted otherwise.

Be Aware

Colombia, like many countries, has areas where petty crime can occur, especially in larger cities and tourist hotspots. Common crimes include pickpocketing, bag snatching, and theft in crowded places. It's advisable to stay vigilant, particularly in busy areas, transportation hubs, or when using ATMs. Avoid displaying valuables such as expensive jewelry or large amounts of cash.
