TRIP PROFILE

We ride a total of 618 km over 8 cycling days, with a total elevation gain of over 13,000 metres. The Mae Hong Son Loop is one of Thailand's most iconic road biking climbing challenges, and completing it is a true badge of honour that you'll cherish for years to come. After meeting in Chiang Mai, we warm up with a section of the classic Samoeng Loop before arriving in Thailand's most mountainous province, Mae Hong Son, where we cycle from one small highland town to the next. Be prepared for long days and consistent climbs with gradients that creep into the double digits. The roads are a dream – excellently paved and largely traffic-free – winding along jungle-clad mountains, across lush valley floors, and through dense forests. The views alone are worth the effort, and passing through these remote corners of northern Thailand, where hill tribe communities and cultures with roots in Myanmar and southern China form the majority of the population, offers fascinating insights into a side of the country that you typically won't find in the travel media. Accommodations include well-appointed and character-rich hotels that provide elevated comfort in areas with established tourism infrastructure, such as Chiang Mai and Pai, along with more basic, yet always cosy options that are often amongst the best available in the remote towns.

The trip is fully supported, and your guide's expert knowledge of the area and terrain means that you always know what is coming up in terms of distance and difficulty. This makes a tremendous difference, as does the constant supply of water and refreshments along the way.

Suitability: This is an advanced-level road biking challenge, ideal for seasoned riders who crave the burn of steep ascents and relish the thrill of technical descents! Stamina is required for back-to-back riding days, including three days with over 100 km covered. Strength is required to handle a variety of climbing conditions, from gradual at 5-7 % gradients to shorter bursts that can get into double digits. On average, you should be comfortable with gaining 1,500 - 2,000 metres of elevation per day, and ready to push your limits on a few days beyond that. Good handling skills are key to safely navigating steep downhills with sharp turns. Less experienced riders are welcome but should prepare themselves in advance to manage the long distances and consistent climbs at a reasonable pace. The support vehicle is always nearby to offer refuge to any weary cyclists.

Biking Conditions: The majority of the Mae Hong Son Loop is paved with smooth asphalt, making it ideal for road biking. While there may be occasional rough patches with debris or potholes, these are few and far between. Traffic is typically light, especially in remote areas, but you should still expect to share the road with trucks, cars, and motorbikes. Near towns and cities, traffic tends to be heavier. Although we've scheduled our departures to avoid the wettest times of the year, rainfall can occur at any time. We generally ride rain or shine, but based on the guide's discretion or your comfort level, modifications to the planned route can be made. Additionally, from March through April, northern Thailand experiences its annual burning season, when smoke from agricultural field clearings causes smog. While we avoid this period entirely, the exact start date varies each year, and some early burnings may occur in February, impacting air quality on parts of the loop.

Day 1: Meet in Chiang Mai

Welcome to Chiang Mai, the “Rose of the North”! We meet at our tour hotel in the early afternoon and transfer a short distance to the Huay Tueng Thao Reservoir. This is a favourite recreation spot for Chiang Mai locals, featuring a large lake surrounded by forests and traffic-free roads. After setting up and fitting the bikes we’ll go for a gentle spin around the area, riding on a cycling & running track before looping around the scenic lake. Keep your eyes out for some large and whimsical straw statues! We then ride along the canal road and some city streets back to our hotel. We reconvene in the evening for a welcome dinner.

Day 2: Chiang Mai - Samoeng - Mae Rim

We kick off our adventure by cycling a section of the Samoeng Loop, one of Chiang Mai's most iconic road cycling routes, celebrated for its serene, winding roads flanked by lush jungle foliage. After a brief 30-minute transfer from the hotel to our starting point southwest of the city, we set out through the forested foothills of Doi Suthep-Pui National Park. Our ride begins with a gentle 15 km stretch, gradually warming us up before we tackle a series of twisty climbs that lead us to the Samoeng viewpoint, perched at around 1,100 metres above sea level. After a well-deserved break to soak in the stunning vistas, we descend into the Mae Sa River Valley, passing through vibrant forests and agricultural fields, with the possibility of spotting elephants at one of the camps lining the road! Our day concludes at a charming rural retreat in the district of Mae Rim, where we'll unwind and settle in for the night.

Day 3: Mae Rim - Pai

We begin today's journey with a flat 30 km ride along the valley floor, cycling past local villages, rice paddies, and a variety of produce thriving in this fertile region. Gradually, the gradients begin to rise, and around 40 km in, we tackle our first pass of the day. After this relatively short but steep ascent, we enjoy a flat stretch along a picturesque highland road before facing two back-to-back, twisty climbs that elevate us to over 1,400 metres above sea level. At 85 km, we are welcomed into Mae Hong Son Province with a long and technical descent into the Pai Valley. Be sure to take it slow and steady as you navigate each switchback, soaking in the epic views that emerge from the clearings in the surrounding forests. The final 15 km are flat as we ride to tonight's hotel in the heart of Pai town. While Pai is a popular tourist destination, it retains a laid-back vibe and is affectionately known as Thailand's hippy town. In the evening, you can enjoy a leisurely stroll through the vibrant night market just down the road.

Day 4: Pai - Mae Hong Son

We depart the Pai Valley and, after 10 km, face one of our toughest ascents yet: the Doi Kiew Lom Climb, another classic of the Mae Hong Son Loop! Spanning roughly 15 km, the road winds steeply around lush hillsides, culminating in a panoramic viewpoint at the top. The 10 km descent that follows is as rewarding as the climb was challenging! The remainder of the ride takes us through a remote stretch of Mae Hong Son Province, rising and falling with the contours of the terrain. We are now cycling through the expansive Shan Hills, a mountain range that stretches across Thailand, Myanmar, and southern China, named after the Shan ethnic group that inhabits this region. Our ride concludes in Mae Hong Son, a quaint town largely populated by Shan people. If you're up for some post-ride exploration, check out the beautiful historic temples built in their distinctive architectural style.

Day 5: Mae Hong Son - Khun Yuam

After a few long and challenging days behind us, today offers a bit of relief — though we're still in northern Thailand, so expect some climbing! Departing from Mae Hong Son town, we start with 15 km through farmlands before tackling a short but spicy ascent to the scenic Pha Bong Viewpoint, overlooking a narrow river valley flanked by craggy mountains. The remainder of the ride is fairly gentle, weaving through the forested hills of Namtok Mae Surin National Park. With villages few and far between, it's a nature-filled day of riding. After reaching the 55 km mark, a gradual, manageable uphill stretch brings us to the town of Khun Yuam, where we conclude today's journey. Enjoy the peaceful ambiance well off-the-beaten path and unwind.

Day 6: Khun Yuam - Mae Sariang

Today, we cycle from one small highland town to another. Departing Khun Yuam, we quickly enter another scenic stretch of backcountry roads, surrounded by jungles, agricultural fields, mountain views, and small villages that occasionally line our path. The route follows rolling hills, trending downhill overall, but with enough climbs to keep our legs working hard. By around 60 km, we enter the valley of the gently flowing Yuam River, riding through its fertile floodplain and navigating some slopes to reach Mae Sariang, a town nestled by the riverbanks. We'll stay overnight at a lovely riverside hotel, perfect for unwinding after another rewarding day of cycling the Mae Hong Son Loop.

Day 7: Mae Sariang - Mae Chaem

Make sure you're well rested because today is the longest and toughest day of the tour! From Mae Sariang, we head east, beginning with a 15 km uphill challenge featuring consistent gradients of around 6%. Once we reach the top of the ridge at about 1,000 metres above sea level, we'll continue along a road that weaves through lush jungly hill crests, dotted with highland farms and hill tribe communities. It's a steady rhythm of ups and downs, with more steep sections along the way, until we hit the 70 km mark, where a fun 10 km downhill into the Mae Chaem River valley awaits. After enjoying the refreshing descent and some time cruising through the valley, we'll tackle one final steep 5 km climb to the top of a pass that leads into the vast landscape of rolling hills in Mae Chaem District. In the distance, we'll catch glimpses of Doi Inthanon, Thailand's tallest mountain, before arriving at our quiet rural retreat for the night. A cold brew or two may be in order to celebrate today's impressive cycling feat!

Day 8: Mae Chaem - Doi Inthanon - Chiang Mai

Our final ride takes us to the top of Doi Inthanon, Thailand's tallest mountain at 2,565 metres above sea level. The climb spans 30 km, with an impressive elevation gain of over 2,200 m and steep gradients that can reach up to 20%. Starting from Mae Chaem, the ascent begins almost immediately as we tackle the mountain, maintaining a steady pace while navigating a series of long uphill drags, steep ramps, zigzagging switchbacks, and tight hairpins—the full gambit of uphill road biking! The forested area carpeting Doi Inthanon's slopes is part of a national park with incredibly rich biodiversity, so don't forget to enjoy the views as we keep moving up. The final kilometres are particularly challenging, but reaching the summit rewards us with panoramic vistas and an unforgettable sense of pride in having reached the "Roof of Thailand" through our own pedal power. After relaxing at the summit we jump in the van and transfer around 2.5 hours back to where it all began: Chiang Mai. Due to safety reasons, a descent from Doi Inthanon by bike is strictly prohibited. In the evening we reconvene for a celebratory farewell dinner.

Due to these reasons, it is occasionally necessary to reroute or update itineraries. Our guarantee is that we will not change a trip unless for safety or to improve it. NUTS & BOLTS

Bikes

Because some people can't imagine going on a trip without their own beloved bicycle, we do not provide them as part of this tour. However, you can hire bikes locally for the price listed in the tour pricing section.

If you bring your own bike, please make sure it is a road bike in good mechanical order.

Bike Repairs

Basic spares and tools are carried by the guide and on the support vehicle, though we cannot guarantee having spares for every conceivable problem. Carrying a basic tool kit, a spare tube and a pump while riding is recommended.

Safety

Wearing a helmet is required on all our biking adventures and is non negotiable. If you do not wear a helmet you will not be allowed to cycle. Your tour leader is trained in first aid and emergency rescue, but to a large degree you must be responsible for your own safety while riding. It is therefore compulsory that you take out travel insurance that will cover you for a mountain biking tour.

Guides

You will be led by a local English-speaking guide and if the group is 9 people or more we will add another guide to the tour. All our guides are well informed in the history, culture and religions of the area where you are biking and are skilled at passing that knowledge on to you. Your guide is also medically trained and an experienced cyclist, able to handle most minor repairs en route.

THE NITTY GRITTY

Passports and Visas

Visitors from 93 countries can enter Thailand for 60 days without applying for a visa. See here if your country is on the list. If you do not hold a passport from one of these countries please contact the Thai embassy or consulate nearest to you about applying for a visa. If you intend to stay for more than 60 days you will also need a visa. Please check this page for more details and the latest updates. Please ensure you hold a passport with at least 6 months of validity remaining. You will need to show proof of an onward flight out of Thailand to be eligible for the visa on arrival. If you do not possess a ticket proving your exit from Thailand within 60 days of arrival, you may be denied boarding.

Important Update: As of May 01, 2025 all non-Thai nationals entering Thailand by air, land, or sea must complete the Thailand Digital Arrival Card (TDAC) online before arrival. Please fill out the details on the official website here within three (3) days before your arrival in Thailand. This is a free process - beware of fake websites that charge a fee. If you are already travelling within the three days before your planned arrival in Thailand, then we suggest completing the form while you are at a hotel with reliable Wi-Fi. It only takes a few minutes.

Health

We recommend that you visit a travel medical doctor and ask about the following vaccinations: typhoid, polio, tetanus and hepatitis A. A certificate for Yellow Fever is required when arriving from an infected area within six days.

Weather

Thailand generally has a tropical climate with fairly high humidity. The North and Central region have a tropical climate with fairly high humidity. Northeast Thailand has a humid hot and dry weather alternatively with medium rain while the coastal areas of the east is humid and hot with intermittent rain. The South of Thailand has a tropical climate with fairly high humidity.

There are three seasons: from March to June it is hot and dry, with temperatures between 27°C/80 F and 40°C/104 F, with night temperatures in the 20s. The rainy season is from July to October, but temperatures are slightly lower, because of the effect of the rain. During this time it will not rain continuously, but in sharp bursts, and the sun can come out quickly. The cooler season is from October to February, with average temperatures between 20°C/68 F and 30°C/86 F.

Food

Meals are included as per the itinerary where B = breakfast, L = lunch, D = dinner. Most meals are local and feature noodles, rice, curries, and soups. Any special dietary requirements can also be catered for as well. Please let us know at the time of booking.

Drink

Keeping you completely hydrated is a job we take very seriously. Cold water, some energy-restoring local fruit, and soft drinks are included in the tour price while riding. Soft drinks and other beverages during meals are not included. Beer is freely available everywhere but is NOT included in the price.

Solo Travelers

SpiceRoads does not require you to pay a surcharge for traveling alone. We will arrange for you to share accommodation with another traveler of the same gender and if we cannot match you up we will provide a single room at no extra charge. If you prefer not to share a single supplement is payable to guarantee your own room. The cost of the single supplement is listed above.

Extra Expenses

We recommend that you tuck away a few extra dollars, perhaps US$20 per day, for incidentals.

Money

The Thai currency is the baht. ATMs, which are abundant, are the easiest ways to get Thai baht. Have a supply of US dollars in cash on hand, just in case your card doesn't work. Banks or the rarer private moneychangers offer the best foreign-exchange rates. Credit cards are accepted in big cities and resort hotels but you'll need baht for family-run guesthouses or restaurants.
